LETTER FROM THE CEO

Vumatel has established itself as South Africa's favourite Fibre to the Home (FTTH) provider. We are the proud pioneers of FTTH. We are moving this country forward and connecting South Africans to the information economy at speeds of up to 250 times the current average broadband speed. In the past 2 years we have connected 40 suburbs to fibre, employed 550 people and indirectly created 5000 additional jobs through our deployment activities.

Vumatel strives to provide residents with an abundance of choice at affordable rates, and in doing so has completely disrupted the industry. We recognise that there is a tangible need for a futureproof technology that will support the growing demands for internet speed and capacity. That futureproof technology is fibre.

We are building a brighter future, one suburb at a time. We have disrupted the fixedline telecommunications industry and have created positive competition. In the past year we have connected 50 000 homes to high speed fibre internet and trenched the distance from Johannesburg to Cape Town and back.

After launching the Schools Project this year, Vumatel has connected almost 30 Primary and High Schools to free 1 Gbps fibre. We aim to connect 60 schools to free 1 GBPS fibre by the end of 2016 touching the lives of an estimated 50 000 pupils and educators. This project is one that we are most proud of as we believe in giving back to the communities in which we deploy our network – and believe in the potential of the youth of this country.

Here's to a pink future,

Niel Schoeman
CEO, Vumatel

A WORLD OF KNOWLEDGE ON YOUR DOORSTEP

TAKE LEARNING TO
THE NEXT LEVEL
WITH VUMA FIBRE
TO THE HOME

MOVING SOUTH AFRICA FORWARD

VUMA installs a free
uncapped 1Gbps
fibre line into every school passed when deploying the network in a suburb.

Vumatel provides free connectivity to schools

Vumatel is rolling out free uncapped open access fibre optic infrastructure to every Primary and High school passed during the deployment of its network.* Each school receives a 1 Gigabit per second line and can choose from a variety of internet service providers for free uncapped internet connectivity.

VUMA piloted this initiative with Greenside High, Hoërskool Linden and Parkhurst Primary. The response has been overwhelmingly positive. Since the pilot, Vumatel has connected almost 30 schools to fibre and aims to connect 60 schools by the end of 2016, touching the lives of 50 000 pupils.

The installation of fibre at the St Vincent School for the Deaf has made a significant impact on the learners, as told by their principal Ingrid Parking. She says that “Teaching deaf learners by means of iPads and Smartboards is far more effective than the previous methods as these are visual learning tools. Having fibre optic internet connectivity has enabled teaching and learning to work at a speed previously unimagined, and has vastly improved the output of work in general.”

Sanjeev Maharaj, the Principal of Parkhurst Primary, speaks of the massive impact that Vuma fibre has had in his school. In 2014, The Click Foundation introduced an e-learning literacy programme to the school called Reading Eggs. On the school’s previous ADSL connection there was a lot of lagging and the class did not flow. “Since introducing the fibre connection we have found that the children are getting through more lessons, more quickly.”

The Click Foundation has seen such success in the programme at Parkhurst Primary since the introduction of improved connectivity, that they have donated an additional 20 computers to the school and use the school to demonstrate the benefits of their literacy programme. “Without adequate connectivity,” says Sanjeev, “none of this would be possible.”

This programme contributes to the enrichment of learning English at the school. Most of the students do not speak English at home and only get exposure to the language at school. The majority of the pupils are from Alexander and Soweto with the remaining coming from the inner city and surrounding suburbs. The fact that they can access this literacy platform is extremely enriching for their English education. The Click Foundation has also found that when comparing children of the same level and demographics, the students at Parkhurst Primary are able to get through their lessons faster and more seamlessly.

“The introduction of this e-learning tool has also changed the way children learn computer skills,” says Sanjeev. “Previously, the focus was on computer literacy. Now the focus is on learning, and computer literacy comes naturally as a byproduct.”

Vumatel aims to provide free high speed connectivity to approximately 60 schools this year, positively affecting around 50,000 pupils. Niel Schoeman, the CEO of Vumatel, insists that “it is vital that we connect our children to the information age. Vumatel challenges other providers to follow our lead and work together to assist in addressing one of South Africa’s key challenges.”

WORK, PLAY, AND FAMILY

your Crystal Web fibre connection gives you what you need.

Why would you look anywhere else?

Why choose Crystal Web? Because sometimes it's the little details that count, such as:

Online gaming in South Africa is largely hosted on servers directly in our data centres, or directly peered both locally and internationally. This means better ping times, and less jitter (a better experience overall)

Online streaming comes from servers either on our network, or directly peered locally and internationally. It's just an all-round better experience on your 4K television or full HD TV.

Why settle for second best? Because we realise that your fibre investment should be matched by our network investments, to ensure that your time is best spent gaming, streaming, and enjoying time with family rather than on support trying to "fix things". We've put the effort in, so you don't have to.
